

Over dit boek

Dit is een digitale kopie van een boek dat al generaties lang op bibliotheekplanken heeft gestaan, maar nu zorgvuldig is gescand door Google. Dat doen we omdat we alle boeken ter wereld online beschikbaar willen maken.

Dit boek is zo oud dat het auteursrecht erop is verlopen, zodat het boek nu deel uitmaakt van het publieke domein. Een boek dat tot het publieke domein behoort, is een boek dat nooit onder het auteursrecht is gevallen, of waarvan de wettelijke auteursrechttermijn is verlopen. Het kan per land verschillen of een boek tot het publieke domein behoort. Boeken in het publieke domein zijn een stem uit het verleden. Ze vormen een bron van geschiedenis, cultuur en kennis die anders moeilijk te verkrijgen zou zijn.

Aantekeningen, opmerkingen en andere kanttekeningen die in het origineel stonden, worden weergegeven in dit bestand, als herinnering aan de lange reis die het boek heeft gemaakt van uitgever naar bibliotheek, en uiteindelijk naar u.

Richtlijnen voor gebruik

Google werkt samen met bibliotheken om materiaal uit het publieke domein te digitaliseren, zodat het voor iedereen beschikbaar wordt. Boeken uit het publieke domein behoren toe aan het publiek; wij bewaren ze alleen. Dit is echter een kostbaar proces. Om deze dienst te kunnen blijven leveren, hebben we maatregelen genomen om misbruik door commerciële partijen te voorkomen, zoals het plaatsen van technische beperkingen op automatisch zoeken.

Verder vragen we u het volgende:

- + Gebruik de bestanden alleen voor niet-commerciële doeleinden We hebben Zoeken naar boeken met Google ontworpen voor gebruik door individuen. We vragen u deze bestanden alleen te gebruiken voor persoonlijke en niet-commerciële doeleinden.
- + Voer geen geautomatiseerde zoekopdrachten uit Stuur geen geautomatiseerde zoekopdrachten naar het systeem van Google. Als u onderzoek doet naar computervertalingen, optische tekenherkenning of andere wetenschapsgebieden waarbij u toegang nodig heeft tot grote hoeveelheden tekst, kunt u contact met ons opnemen. We raden u aan hiervoor materiaal uit het publieke domein te gebruiken, en kunnen u misschien hiermee van dienst zijn.
- + Laat de eigendomsverklaring staan Het "watermerk" van Google dat u onder aan elk bestand ziet, dient om mensen informatie over het project te geven, en ze te helpen extra materiaal te vinden met Zoeken naar boeken met Google. Verwijder dit watermerk niet.
- + Houd u aan de wet Wat u ook doet, houd er rekening mee dat u er zelf verantwoordelijk voor bent dat alles wat u doet legaal is. U kunt er niet van uitgaan dat wanneer een werk beschikbaar lijkt te zijn voor het publieke domein in de Verenigde Staten, het ook publiek domein is voor gebruikers in andere landen. Of er nog auteursrecht op een boek rust, verschilt per land. We kunnen u niet vertellen wat u in uw geval met een bepaald boek mag doen. Neem niet zomaar aan dat u een boek overal ter wereld op allerlei manieren kunt gebruiken, wanneer het eenmaal in Zoeken naar boeken met Google staat. De wettelijke aansprakelijkheid voor auteursrechten is behoorlijk streng.

Informatie over Zoeken naar boeken met Google

Het doel van Google is om alle informatie wereldwijd toegankelijk en bruikbaar te maken. Zoeken naar boeken met Google helpt lezers boeken uit allerlei landen te ontdekken, en helpt auteurs en uitgevers om een nieuw leespubliek te bereiken. # PREFACE.

THE Compilation here offered to the Public, has been prepared with great care from the Records of the Public or General Department of the Secretariat and of the Civil Auditor's Office at Calcutta, as well as from the Public Notifications in the Government Gazette. Its utility for the purpose of tracing the history of any Civil Servant's career in India, and of ascertaining whether on a given date he filled a particular office, which is frequently a question of importance to those concerned in the administration of the Country, must be manifest; and heretofore the want of some means of promptly ascertaining such points has frequently been felt. It was one of the first acts of Lord William Bentinck after he had assumed the Government General of India, to call by general circular for a statement of services from every individual then in the Civil employ of Government. The object for which this circular was issued would have been anticipated, if there had then existed an authentic compilation such as that now prepared; and although Messrs. Dodwell and Miles published very soon afterwards the compilation prepared by them from the records of the India House, there are many particulars wanting in that publication, and it was not found to supercede the necessity of completing what had already been put in hand in India with the same view.

In the following pages every nomination made by the Court of Directors to the Civil Service of Bengal, is entered with its date and followed out to the termination of service by death or retirement.

PREFACE.

Mr. H. T. Prinsep, the Secretary to Government, by whose direction and under whose superintendence the compilation was made, observed at an early period the great benefit which might be derived from it as a basis for computing the value of life in India. It was that gentleman who first applied to this branch of statistics the principle of combining consecutive years of service in a general table, arranged by the gradation of years for the formation of an aggregate, upon which to calculate the decrement of life in each year. Having framed tables from the very compilation now given to the public, he explained the principle referred to in an article published in the Journal of the Asiatic Society in 1832. The principle is briefly this, to take the nominations of each year and classify them by years of service, then the total of nominations in fifty years, giving a large aggregate, forms a safe basis on which to calculate deaths in the year of nomination, and so with each consecutive year of service, and the ratio of the decrement of life in each year of service being taken on sure data in large numbers, becomes a per-centage value for life, at that period, passed under the risks of an Indian climate, and under other usual circumstances incident to the career of a Bengal Civil Servant, as complete and well established as the similar valuations for life in other countries, which have been computed from data far less susceptible of actual verification.

In the first tables framed on this principle, viz. those published in the Asiatic Society's Journal of 1832, Mr. Prinsep contented himself with roughly taking as a half life for the year, the case of servants who died or retired in the course of it, and so with the year of nomination, the whole twelve months of which very rarely, if ever, entered into the table. But this rough estimate was subsequently exchanged for an exact decimal calculation for the date of appointment to the service on one hand, and of decease or retirement on the other. And the tables, as so completed and brought down to the year 1842, that is, for a period of fifty-three years from 1790, are now included in this volume. They are arranged and headed as for years of service, in order to convert their results into calculation for years of life; an average age must be taken for that of appointment to the service by the Honorable the Court of Directors. There is some difficulty in effecting this in consequence of the changes which have taken place in the method and circumstances of appointment to the Civil Service of the East The establishment of the College of Haileybury India Company. has of necessity operated to make the Servants, appointed subsequently to that event, senior in age to their predecessors. - In like manner the rules of that institution have varied, so that there is no actual certainty as to the per-centage that ought to be assumed for that of appointment and arrival. In order to set this matter in as clear a light as possible, the ages of the Servants of eight separate years, viz. 1801, seventeen years six months-1809, eighteen years seven months-1815, eighteen years three months-1817, eighteen years one month-1821, nineteen years three months-1826, nineteen years six months -1831, eighteen years four months-1840, twenty years one monthhave been ascertained and the average of each of these years is as noted, and of the whole nineteen years. Exact accuracy is not essential at the period of life referred to, for there is no essential difference in the risk of life at any age between twenty years and thirty, so that whether the average for the whole Bengal service be taken at nineteen or twenty as the age of nomination and arrival, is in reality, of very small importance. In these tables which are framed for years of service the age can never be assumed upon other than an average for the reason stated, and the age originally assumed, viz. nineteen years for the year of nomination and twenty for the first of service is supported by the actual average now ascertained.

Another important table has been framed to show the chances of retirement with fortune or without, as compared with the risks of life during the entire period of service. To frame this table, those years have been taken of which no servant remains, and the deaths or retirements by which the entire numbers have been absorbed are given in the order of years of service. The result of this table shows a very extraordinary equality in the total of deaths and retirements, and it is curious as indicating the period when each cause has operated with more or less effect to produce decrement. The same comparison is added to the life-table, so as to account completely for the decrement of number from year to year.

All these tables were framed under the superintendence and by direction of the Hon'ble Mr. H. T. Prinsep, late Secretary to Government and Member of the Council of India; and the Publisher has received his permission to add them to his compilation in order to make the work more valuable and complete

The Compiler cannot close these few prefatory remarks without expressing his thanks for the countenance and encouragement he has received, from the Service generally, particularly from those gentlemen who have favored him with a corrected copy of their careers; without such assistance, from the necessarily brief entries in the records of Government, so full and important a compilation could not have been made.

EXPLANATORY REMARKS TO THE LIFE TABLES.

Estimate of the Risk of life to Civil Servants of the Bengal Presidency in each year of their Residence in India, by H. T. PRINSEP, Esq., Secretary to Government, &c. &c.

(Extracted from the Asiatic Society's Journal for July, 1832.)

The number of the GLEANINGS IN SCIENCE for September 1831, contained an article " On the Duration of life in the Bengal Civil Service" with several tables, exhibiting the results at which the author had arrived by various processes of calculation. The subject is of first rate interest to all residents in India, and the manner in which these tables have been given forth is likely to lead to their being taken upon trust as of full authority. The results however are too startling to be admitted without a strict examination of the data, which are the basis of calculation; and as the registers and statements from which these profess to be taken were compiled principally in my Office and have recently been brought to more accuracy than they possessed when first prepared and furnished to the Finance Committee, and to other departments and public officers, I have thought it my duty to recast them myself into a tabular form, so as to allow the results afforded by them to be compared with those assumed in the article in question. I am sorry to say, that they differ too widely to be adjusted by any compendious explanation of discrepancies; and, as I have found reason moreover to doubt whether any accurate conclusions can be drawn from the specific results which are there exhibited as the basis of calculation, I am compelled to adopt somewhat different forms. For these reasons, no less than for assurance, that the data have not been lightly assumed, my first table has extended to a size and contains a quantity of detail which may prove inconvenient.

It is necessary to premise that the materials we possess are ; First, the appointments made in each year by the Honorable Court of Directors. Secondly, the arrivals in India under these appointments; which are necessarily irregular in date, and not equal in number with the nominations. Thirdly, the retirements; which is rather a wide class, including as well those who absolutely resign, as those who leave the country upon temporary leave, and overstay the period of five years fixed by Act of Parliament as the limit for absence from India without loss of the Service. Civil Servants on Furlough, or in Europe, under temporary leave, being still borne on the Registers, and their deaths being reported, are considered as still in the Service, and though dying perhaps in Europe or on ship-board would be entered amongst the deaths. The dismissals from Service are included in the head of Retirements. Fourthly, Deaths; the reports of which, with the dates, are ordinarily on record; or, if not so, the time can be ascertained with sufficient accuracy by a reference to the books of the General Treasury, which show up to what date salary has been drawn and arrears adjusted with Deaths on ship-board, when not reported, are considered as of the year in executors. which the ship left India.

From the above materials, the Court's annual list of appointments being taken as a ground-work, every individual name has been traced, and the fate of the person who bore it, ascertained to the time of his death, or of his quitting the Service. The following statement exhibits the result in one view with the date by the calendar year of each death or retirement. If any one should desire to know the names of the individuals represented by the figures of this table, that information also is at his Service in the registers that have been compiled together with the specific ground of placing in each instance. Our present business however is with the results in abstract.

This table corresponds with that of page 273 in the article of the GLEANINGS referred to, only so far as that the number of appointments between 1790 and 1828, will be found to be the same. The number here is 842, to which add 11 for those who never came to India under their appointments, as noted at the foot of the table. The writer of the article assumes 852,* showing that he has followed the same registers without rejecting the non-arrivals, which, for the correct ascertainment of the proportion of deaths, should evidently have been done. The table requires to be well studied and examined, before we proceed to make deductions from the data it contains. The test or verification of its accuracy will be found in the last column, which gives the remaining servants of each year, that is, those still in the Service, after deducting the deaths and retirements, up to the date of compilation, from the number of original appointments. (See Table No. I.)

Now, the first thing to be remarked in this table is, that the appointments being taken from the date of the dispatch of the Court of Directors, which date is not invariably the 31st December or 1st January, the period comprised in the year of appointment is not a complete year. Of the 19 men appointed in 1790, 15 only arrived in India in that year; the remainder came in 1791. But whether they arrived or not would not very much signify, if we had their life to reckon for a complete year. The material circumstance is, that the appointments were made at different dates, mostly, indeed, in the first half of the year before May; but one gentleman (Mr. Leycester) was appointed in December, 1790, and yet reckoned high on the list of the For this last reason, added to the difficulty created by the non-arrivals, it has vear. been deemed necessary to reject the year of appointment entirely from the calculations, and to assume the first year for the men appointed in 1790, as commencing from the 1st January, 1791, and so with all following years. The compiler of the tables, in the article of the GLEANINGS before referred to, has included this year in the computation of 852, as the number of appointments up to 1828, for he would otherwise have rejected the nominations of the last year of the series. His first year being, as is evident from this circumstance, that of nomination, he sets down the deaths upon the complete number of persons nominated as being, in the year of their appointment, only two. The above table, however, shows six deaths in the year of appointment, or five, if the years subsequent to 1828 be thrown out; and this, without making any allowance for the eleven cases of appointed servants who never came to India, several of whom may have been prevented by death from availing themselves of their appointments. Whence the author of that article took his numbers, it is beyond me to guess: but it will stand to reason, that two deaths upon 850 appointments, made in the course of 40 years, mostly a period of war, can be no near approximation, to the risks of the voyage out, and the numberless accidents to which headstrong youth is liable. Six deaths, in the year of actual appointment, have been traced; but, as there is reason to doubt, whether this even can be the whole number, while, as above remarked, the period is never a complete year, it has been deemed better to take, as the first year for calculation of the value of life, that dating from the 1st January, after appointment. The deaths of our next year are 17, which I confess my inability to reconcile in any way with the number of the GLEANINGS, which is 9 only for the two years' risk of life upon 809 appointments. It is not my business, however, to point out these discrepancies. The essential thing is to make out a statement that shall be free from error, or as nearly so as the case will admit; and that given above is offered as the best which our present materials afford the means of framing. In the table which follows, No. III. the ratio of deaths to survivors, in each year of residence, is attempted to be exhibited, the deaths being taken from the table above, and the number of persons whose life was at risk being thus computed: the total appointments between 1790, and 1831, were 951,

* This number is one short of the true, because there were two Robert Grahams appointed in the same year, and they were supposed to be the same person.

of whom 11 died in England, or changed their mind, or from other cause never came to India. There remain 940, from which number must be deducted the ascertained deaths  $(5^*)$ , and retirements (1), in the first year, being together 6; also the appointments of the year 1831 (29), which could not be included in the computation, unless the year 1832, were brought in. The number, therefore, of Civil Servants appointed between 1790 and 1831, who were in the condition to abide the chance of life for a first year, commencing from the 1st January after their appointment, was 905. Our table assumes 904, because there was one retirement in the year we are reviewing; and, as those who retire give the risk of their lives only for the broken period before their departure, the number of persons on the register on the 1st January requires correction on their account. It is assumed, that retiring servants give, on the average, the risk of their lives for half the year in which they retire; accordingly deduction is made, from the registered numbers on the 1st January, of half the number of the retirements between that date and the 31st December following. Where the number is uneven, as in this case being one, the deduction is made alternately to include or reject the unit. We thus begin with 904 lives, of which the proportion of deaths in the first year was 17, being in the ratio of 188 out of 10,000. For the computation of the ratio in the second year, we have the 905 men of the first year, minus the whole number of retirements (1), and deaths (17), in the course of that year, and minus also the appointments of 1830, which were 25, that is, 905-43, or 862. Of this number of registered servants on the lst January of the second year, four retired in the course of the year : deducting 2, therefore, for the diminished risk upon their lives, the number 862 stands corrected to 860, of which number 21 died in the year, being in the ratio of 244 out of 10,000. Α separate value has thus been computed for each year of life in India, from the first to the 30th inclusive; after which the number of registered servants becomes too small to afford results at all trust-worthy. Before we proceed to the tables exhibiting the estimate of the value of life for each year, formed on this principle, it will be proper to exhibit separately the precise number of survivors in India, on the first of January of each year of their service; it being my purpose, as above explained, to compare these numbers, not with the original appointments as in the table of the GLEANINGS, but with the deaths of the year then commencing. I shall presently explain why no correct result could be extracted, from a comparison of the survivors with the number of original appointments, or even with that of arrivals in India. (See Table, No. II.)

Taking the table of survivors as the material for calculation, the ratio of deaths is exhibited for each year in the table which follows, No. III. The same ratio is reduced to a decimal proportion upon 10,000, for more ready deduction of the average of each five years, and for comparison with the tables of Europe. The number of deaths assumed, and the moiety of retirements deducted in Table II. may be tested by comparison with Table I, in which all the appointments, deaths, and resignations are separately entered, according to the calendar year in which they occurred.

• The deaths upon 940, in the year of appointment were 6 by our table, but one of these belonged to the 29 nominations of 1831, all of which being rejected from the calculation for the first year after appointment, and being deducted separately, this death must not be subtracted again. The deaths upon 940—29 or 911 were only 5.

The results of the first of these tables by no means correspond with those given in the GLEANINGS, and will not admit of very ready comparison. The ratio of deaths, however, to the number of survivors set down for each year in that article, has been calculated in order that the extent of discrepance may be seen. But it strikes me that there is a fallacy in the GLEANINGS' table, which, besides that there are errors in the numbers assumed as above pointed out, must make it valueless for any computation of the risk of life in India. The basis of calculation for each period there taken is the following.—The number of appointments made between 1790 and 1819, (I take this year at random,) is stated at 603. By the end of 1828 the last year's servants will have been 10 years in India, or at least on the register; and computing the results of all these appointments for 10 years, it is found that there were 39 retirements and 77 deaths amongst them in that period. It is hence assumed, that in ten years, 77 deaths take place in 603, minus 39, or 564 cases of persons resident in India between the ages of twenty and thirty, leaving 487 survivors. But how can this be a true ratio, when the risk of life upon the 39 cases of retirements, while they remained in India, is lost to the calculation.—This number should not have been deducted from the 603, appointments as consisting of cases taken out of the life-risk altogether; but if any correction were attempted, it should have been made by deducting only half the number, on the principle, that the country had the risk of their life while they staid in it, which may be computed on the average at a half risk. The number of deaths would then perhaps have borne a pretty correct proportion to the appointments, but the number of surviving residents would have needed a like correction. The omission to note this makes but little difference, perhaps in the earlier years, wherein there are comparatively few retirements, but it has wonderful effect on the ratios of the latter. Take for instance the 25th year, of which the data are as follows: appointments from 1790 to 1804,-341; resignations out of these in 25 years, 93, deaths, 105. Now, it makes a very material difference whether these 105 deaths are to be taken as 105, out of 341, minus 93, i. e. out of 248, giving 143 survivors, as in Table the II. page 274, or 105 out of 341 minus 25 or 46 being 295, leaving 190 survivors. The number of survivors in India is however the actual number found in the registers that cannot be changed, and the calculations of the GLEANINGS' article are made on this The question therefore is presented in a different shape, and if this number number. be made the basis of any estimate or calculation, there must be corrections applied to settle out of how many of these are the remnant from the effect of mortality only. For the fact, that many servants, after abiding the risk of life for 20 years, have at last withdrawn themselves while still living from both the survivors' list and from the original number, must leave the deaths upon the remaining appointments to bear a much higher ratio than they ought to do. Suppose, for instance, out of 100 arriving in a given year, 40 die in the course of 25 years, and 40 more having given the risks of their lives for 20 years, retire living between the 20th and 25th, then, by the table at page 274 in the GLEANINGS, these 40, being deducted from the 100, the deaths would be stated at 40, out of 60, and the survivors only 20 of that number. This circumstance, viz. the fact that the retirements come mostly in the latter years of service, will of itself explain the wide difference apparent in the value of life in the later years, compared with the earlier, as exhibited in the article in question, and remarked upon there as if fully established. The table at page 274 shows a decrement of very nearly 1-12th of the number living, for each year, from the age of 45 to 50, which is out of all reason : one in 41 to one in 37 is the ratio of the Northampton tables quoted for the same age, and the difference of climate cannot surely triple and quadruple this mortality at that period of life.*

Looking upon all computation from the number of survivors after a given period, as impossible, in consequence of the large proportion of retirements in the advanced years of service, I am compelled to reject the tables of the GLEANINGS altogether, and offer instead those given above, which are based, as already explained, upon a comparison of the number of deaths in each year of service, with the number living, and in India on the first day of the year.—This reduced to a decimal proportion will allow a comparison to be made of the value of life in each year, with the value assumed in the best approved tables of Europe. The retirements will not much affect a calculation made on this principle, and unless error can be detected in the numbers assumed for the deaths on one hand, or for the total of risks on the other, I am not aware of any ground on which the comparison can be impugned. Proceed we therefore to this part of the subject, and first, for the age of appointment. In the article of the GLEANINGS this is taken at 20 years. Now, considering that 15 years was heretofore the age of earliest appointment, and 22 years the latest permitted by act of Parliament; considering too, that until 1806-7 there was no detention, at the Hertford or Hayleybury College, but those appointed were at once shipped to their destination; so, that many actually reached India before they were 16: this assumed age appears too high, 17 years for the age of arrival before the establishment of the College in England, and 19 for the average subsequently, or for the general average 18 years would seem to be a fairer estimate; but we will allow 19 for the convenience of assuming the same period of life for our results, as the article in the GLEANING; for as in the above tables the first year is reckoned from the 1st January following the appointment; we have then 20 years for the age of those whose risk of life is computed for that year. In Tables III. and IV. I have attempted a comparison of the value of life in India, from the age of 20 to 50 as afforded by the above tables for the Civil Service on one hand, and as given in the most approved tables for the same age in Europe on the other.

It will be seen, that for the value of life in Europe, I have taken the general mean prepared by Dr. Young, by compounding the Northampton and Carlisle Tables with the London bills of mortality, and with the rates of the Equitable Life Insurance. This I believe to be the latest estimate of the kind that has been published. It will be found in the volume of the Philosophical Transactions for 1826, and Dr. Young's celebrity as a calculator entitles it to be received as of first rate authority.

In Table III. in which the annual deaths are given as they occurred with the ratio calculated to a decimal proportion for each year there will be found an average of the same decimal ratio for each five years of the period embraced in the calculation. In order to afford the means of ready comparison, I have also computed the ratio of deaths to the annual survivors as given in the table in the GLEANINGS and in Dr. Young's table of the decrement of life, and have reduced both to a decimal proportion to 10,000. It will be seen, that my result is for the first five years of residence in India, commencing at the age of 20, a risk for each year of 203 in 10,000. The Tables of Europe make the risk at the same period of life only  $96\frac{1}{2}$  in 10,000, while the table in the GLEANINGS, professing to be based on the same materials with my own, but calculating from the number of survivors upon a total of appointments, from which retirements have been deducted, gives 128. There are errors in the number of deaths. which account for much of this latter difference; for if a due number of deaths had been taken for the first two years, there is no reason why in this part of the table there should be much variation. The result of the comparison with England is, that the chance of death between the ages of 20 and 25 is to Europeans, residing in India under the most favorable circumstances, more than double what it is in England; and this may well be imagined to be the case under the risks from fever and exposure to the climate, independently of other causes.

In the second five years, our proportion is 209 out of 10,000, for each year's deaths; whereas in England it is only 133; but this difference is no longer double, it is only a little more than three to two. The GLEANINGS' table gives 162.

The third lustrum of residence is the most healthy period according to our table, and experience is in favour of the same conclusion. The constitution is now adapted to the climate, and the seeds of premature decay, though they may have been sown, have not had time to produce their effect. For this period of life, India is nearly as safe a place of residence as England, and it is the only period during which there is any proximity at all in the ratios. From this time forward the yearly value of life progressively and regularly decreases as age advances, and it will be observed to do so much more rapidly in India than in England. The error of principle in the calculations of the GLEANINGS begins to be particularly observable in the ratios for the two periods following the fourth. From 205 in 10,000, the rate of the third period, the deaths, according to that table advance to 411 for each year, after a residence of 20 and to 811, for the years between 25 and 30 of residence. Our result, though as compared with the general mean for England, worse for Indian residents of this standing, in the proportion of 5 to 3, is nevertheless much less unfavorable than the rate above quoted; indeed, for the last period our rate is less than half that of the GLEANINGS.

The results for the years after the 30th of residence, are founded on too low numbers to be built upon, and yet the average on the totals to the 41st year comes pretty nearly to the rate one might have expected. The further deterioration of value corresponds with that afforded by the mean tables of Dr. Young for the same period of life, and may be noted as a curious result, though the ratio cannot be looked upon as established.

In Table IV. I have thrown the results of Table III. into a form to show the *decre*ment of life according to my computation of its value for each separate year. This has been done merely to satisfy the curiosity of those who delight in seeing the same results in different shapes; and because the published tables being ordinarily in this form, it is convenient to present the means of ready comparison by giving one to correspond. For any purposes of calculation, the separate value ascertained for each year of Indian life, from the age of 20 to 50 seems the more useful result to depend upon.

Corrected Estimate of the Risk of Life to Civil Servants of the Bengal Presidency. By H. T. Prinsep, Esq., Secretary to Government, &c.

Extract from the Asiatic Society's Journal for May 1837.

In the number of this Journal for July, 1832, some tables were published showing the risk of life amongst Civil Servants on the Bengal Establishment, and in a short article the principles were explained upon which the tables had been framed. The method adopted in that article for computing the risks of life in the Civil Service of the Bengal Presidency has met the entire approbation of the most able actuaries in England, and the tables have not only been adopted as affording the best estimate forthcoming of the chances of life amongst persons in good circumstances in the climate of India, but attempts have likewise been made to apply the same method of computation to other services. Amongst others, Mr. Curnin has, we understand, successfully computed tables framed on the same principles for the Military Services of all the three Presidencies of India, from the year 1765 to the present date, a work of immense labour, the results of which we have seen in abstract, and lament that the publication of them has been so long delayed. As our Civil Service tables have thus acquired an importance, as well from the use made of them by Insurance offices, as from the application of the principle to the construction of other tables, we have deemed it necessary, now that another lustrum of five years has passed since they were framed, to republish them, completed to the close of 1836, and to draw attention a second time to the method adopted in their construction. We will not conceal that a principal motive with us for taking this trouble is, that we have discovered some errors in the tables of 1832, and therefore are anxious to supercede it for practical use by supplying one more accurate. We are glad also to avail ourselves of the opportunity to point the attention of public officers and persons of intelligence at other Presidencies to the expediency of keeping registers, and framing similar tables for the different Services with which they may be connected. In a very valuable paper drawn up by Mr. Griffith Davies for the Bombay Civil Fund, a form of register is given, which, if duly kept, will afford the means of constructing accurate tables for any purposes framed precisely upon our principle, and this table may be adopted for a regiment or for any number of persons circumstanced alike,—that is, when in a condition to yield a fair average of casualties, just as well as for a service constituted like the Civil Services of the different Presidencies. The only thing to be attended to is, that in like manner as a separate page in the service registers ought to be set apart for the nominations of Civil Servants for each year, because, for facility of computation, we assume them to be of persons of the same. average age, so a separate page must be assigned to persons of the same age when the register is formed for the purpose of obtaining the risks of life amongst persons promiscuously selected, and not of uniform or nearly corresponding ages.

As it is of importance that this should be well understood, and because we wish to inculcate the expediency of framing tables of the same kind not only for His Majesty's and for the Native Regiments, but likewise for the natives of cities and towns in different parts of India, we shall devote a few words to a little further explanation of the registers we recommend to be kept. The following is the form into which any number of names upon which it is desired to obtain life results of any kind may be entered, taking care only, as before pointed out, that those entered in the same page are always of the same age at the time of first registry.

Now if one hundred names of soldiers were entered in the first column as having come into the country at the age of 23, though every one of them came, perhaps in a different year, still the register for as many years as it may extend in respect to these persons, giving in each the fact of the individual having outlived that year or not, or any other circumstance or event, must afford the means of computing the different accidents of life for every age that may be reached by the persons so registered, and the results of one page may be combined with those of any other by adding the sum at the bottom of the page to the proper column with reference to age of such other page, and by taking out of the whole the number of deaths or of marriages or of the births of children, male or female, or of any other accident of life that may be recorded in the column to compare with the sum of the lives of the age in both pages, or of as many pages as may be brought into the computation.

We presume that every Insurance Office keeps registers framed upon this principle, but we wish to see them extended to the Army, and likewise to some thousands of natives in towns and in the interior, with a view to obtaining the materials for computing the risks and accidents of life amongst these classes at different ages, in respect to which we are at present without any materials for framing a table or estimate of any kind.

The tables given in Capt. Henderson's article upon the subject of the value of life in India, published in the last volume of the Researches of the Asiatic Society, though framed with great labour, are defective on this point.* They afford general averages of the value of life amongst certain classes, but not of the value of life at each year of age, which is a most essential circumstance; and for Insurance Offices or for institutions which deal in annuities, the risks with reference to age are the main and most important, if not the only matter for consideration.

It is to be observed that it will not be possible to frame registers retrospectively for any class of persons, unless from peculiar circumstances a given number of names with the age of each individual can be entered for any specific past date, and these can be followed out in all their circumstances to the date of the formation of the registers. This is the principle upon which the previous and present tables have been framed for the Bengal Civil Service, and upon which similar tables have been made for the Army. The nominations of each year to the different services being fixed and known, and the power existing of tracing almost every nominee, the registers have been made up for past years as completely and accurately as if the nominees of the present year were to be followed prospectively through their career of service to the time of their deaths or The same principle may perhaps be adopted in framing regimental retirements. registers retrospectively for privates and non-commissioned officers, because each individual can similarly be traced, and his age at the time of enlistment or of arrival in India will be on the regimental rolls; but no materials will be any where forthcoming from which to do the same for any class of natives, unless it be for the tenants of the different Jails during the period of their confinement for debt or under criminal sentences.

Having premised the above remarks on the general applicability of the method of computation adopted for ascertainment of the risks of life amongst Bengal Civil Servants, it remains to give the amended table, framed from the registers prepared in the Secretary's Office at Calcutta for the Bengal Service from 1790 to 1836. The number of individuals of the class whose names are registered, and who have given to our table a first year of life, is now very nearly 1000,† and the average of the first five years is consequently framed on a total of 4525 lives. To the end of the 20th year, the number of annual lives now exceeds 300, and the five years' averages are upon numbers exceeding Two thousand; the yearly numbers diminish to 100 at the end of the 30th year, only affording for the five years' average of that period of life as many as 660 lives. For the succeeding five years the average is reduced to actual casualties upon 299 lives, and after that the numbers are too small to afford any data that can be relied upon.

• Captain DeHaviland's tables for the Madras army are an exception to this remark, as they are framed by years of Service on our principle, but the results of the first years of the Series give ratios of deaths for those years which cast a doubt on the accuracy of the whole table. Mr. Gordon's army table is of too old a date to be useful.

↑ The registered Nominations are 1003, but this includes the nominees of 1836 who have not yet given us a first year of life. The following test of the accuracy of our table may be satisfactory.

To the corrected estimate now given of the risks of life in the Bengal Civil Service, we have added a column for retirements, in order that the curious in Europe may build ingenious speculations thereupon. It is mortifying to observe that the total number of these does not equal one half of the deaths, but this statement we would remark is not framed to show the chance an individual entering the Bengal Civil Service has of retiring with a fortune. For the exhibition of that result a very different table must be prepared, framed on the principle of following out the nominations of those particular years of which all the nominees are expended by death or retirement. There are four years in this predicament, the results of which give the following ratios of deaths to retirements.

	Deat	hs.	Retiren	ients.
Nominations.	Before 20th year.	In or after 20th year.	Before 20th year.	In or after 20th year.
1790-19	8	3	2	6
1792-18	5	2	2	9
1794—26	12	5	5	4
1798—32	8	8	6	10
95	33	18	15	29
	5	1	 	44

From this it would appear that out of 95 Bengal nominations the deaths are 51, or more than half; the retirements are 44, of which 15 occurring before the 20th year cannot be considered as retirements with fortunes made in India. Twenty-nine, however, out of 95, or somewhat less than one-third, is the proportion of retirements with fortune afforded by the results of these four years.

To return, however, to the Life Tables : we have not thought it worth while to publish on this occasion the extended tables in which the results of each individual year have been combined for the formation of the corrected general result now exhibited. These exist together with elaborate registers with the name of every Bengal Civil Servant inscribed ready to be referred to by any person desirous of looking further into the detail. We explained fully in the article of July, 1832, the method we had followed in extracting and combining these results, and it would be an unnecessary repetition therefore to follow the process of computation again through each of the stages. We conclude with expressing our desire that the present table may supercede altogether Table III, of the article of July, 1832, and we vouch for its superior and, we believe, perfect accuracy. The quinquennial percentage is carried only to the thirteenth year of residence or 49th of life. The results of the remaining years are gathered into our percentage for the whole.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

OF THE

COLLEGE OF FORT WILLIAM,

ENACTED BY THE RIGHT HONORABLE THE GOVERNOR OF BENGAL, ON THE 23D JUNE, 1841, AND ORDERED TO BE IN FORCE FROM THAT DATE IN-STEAD OF THE PRECEDING STATUTES; THE WHOLE OF WHICH ARE HEREBY REPEALED.

RESOLUTION.

The Right Honorable the Governor having taken into consideration the present organization of the College of Fort William, and the purposes for which that Establishment is now maintained, is of opinion, that a more suitable system of Rules and Regulations should be prescribed for the Institution than is contained in the "Eighth Chapter of Statutes of the College of Fort William," and his Lordship is accordingly pleased to resolve, that the following Rules and Regulations be established in lieu of the "Eighth Chapter of Statutes of the College of Fort William," which is hereby superseded.

1. The Governor of Bengal shall be the Visitor of the College and will exercise a general superintendence over the affairs of the College, assisted by the Secretary of the Institution.

2. The Secretary will be appointed by the Governor of Bengal, by whom also the necessary Establishment of subordinate Officers will be sanctioned. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a regular book of his Proceedings, to be observant of the Rules and Regulations of the College, and to carry into execution all orders passed by the Visitor.

3. The Governor of Bengal will appoint the Public Examiners of the College, and the examination of the Students attached to the College will be conducted by them in the manner hereafter laid down. No person shall be permanently appointed to the office of Public Examiner in the College without satisfactory proof of a competent proficiency in two, at least, of the languages taught in the College.

4. A necessary qualification for the office of Examiner shall be the possession of Degrees of Honor in two of the languages of the College. But the Governor of Bengal will nominate an Officer, when the occasion may require it, to officiate as an Examiner or Professor in the College who may not be possessed of those testimonies, and in every instance of this unavoidable departure from the established rule of qualification a period of not more than six months, from the time of entering upon the temporary discharge of his duties, will be allowed to the Officer so nominated to enable him to obtain the requisite Degree or Degrees of Honor during which time he will not be entitled to draw more than half the allowances attached to the Office.

5. The Examiners shall be subject to the authority of the Visitor, and any neglect of duty or conduct causing dissatisfaction to the Visitor will be reported to the Government.

6. An Establishment of Native Teachers for the instruction of the Students in the several languages taught in the College will be maintained with the sanction of the Governor of Bengal. They will be examined by the Examiners with a view to ascertain their qualifications before they are admitted as Teachers in the College. They will be employed under the immediate direction of the Secretary in regard to the instruction to be given by them to the Students to whom they are attached.

7. Writers, immediately on their arrival at the Presidency, will be referred to the Secretary of the College and will insert in the College Register the following particulars :

Date of Admission. Name. When appointed. When arrived. What Oriental languages studied at Hertford. The Oriental languages proposed to be studied at the College of Fort William.

8. After their admission as Students, they will be examined by the Examiners of the College in any language or languages taught in the College which they may have studied previously, and the extent of their acquirements will be reported for the information of the Government.

9. They will be eligible for employment in the public service when the Examiners shall have reported them qualified by a competent knowledge of two of the prescribed languages. If a Student desires to remain longer in the College for the purpose of attaining a higher degree of proficiency in the same languages, or to become proficient in any other language taught in the College it will be at the discretion of the Visitor to give permission for that purpose, till the next Public Examination, and the Governor of Bengal will grant permission for a more extended period if he thinks proper.

10. Of the two Oriental Languages taught at the College in which the Student will be required to qualify himself, the Persian shall be one and Hindee or Bengalee (at the option of the Student) the other.*

11. The following shall be the examination books of the several languages and proficiency in those which the Student is studying shall be the standard of qualification for the service.

In Persian,	Anwari Soheilee,
	Goolistan,
Hindee,	Prem Ságur,
Bengalee,	Hitopádesh,
Oordoo	Baghobuhár and Ikhwan oos Sufa.

* Modified by Government letter of 25th May 1842, of which a copy accompanies this. Hindee and Persian for North West Provinces ; Bengalee with Persian or Oordoo for Bengal.

Ж

Exclusive of the above oral test the Student is to be examined in written exercises of the following character, which it is expected shall be performed with a tolerable degree of correctness. These shall be prepared by the Secretary under the direction of the Visitor.

- No. 1. A paper in the Language in which the examination is held, to be translated into English. In the Persian Examination, the paper is to be taken from either the Goolistan or Anwari Soheilee.
- No. 2. An English paper of an easy narrative style to be translated into the language in which the Examination is held.

No. 3. English Sentences to be translated into the same language.

12. Every Student will be expected to qualify himself for the public service within 12 months from the date of his initiatory Examination and for that period only will he be entitled to the assistance of a College Moonshee and Pundit. If he shall fail to qualify himself in 12 months, the circumstance shall be reported by the Secretary of the College for the information of Government. After which, a period of three months will be allowed him to complete his studies; and if, at the end of that time, he be found still incompetent a further report will be made to the Government and his name will be struck off the list of the College. He will also be required in pursuance of the Orders of the Court of Directors to proceed to England, six weeks being given to him to prepare for his departure.

13. If public inconvenience shall be found to result from the neglect either of the Bengalee or of the Hindee language in favor of the other, the Governor will direct the studies in the College to be modified in such manner as may appear to be necessary to secure a due proportion of Students in each language, and the discretion of determining what shall be considered a sufficient qualification for employment in the Public Service, and what tests shall be appointed for the College Examinations, Rewards and Honors will always rest with the Government.

14. Public Examinations shall be held monthly when each Student must shew progress, in one language at least, (see accompanying Government letter dated May 25th, 1842.) Intermediate Examinations will not be allowed except under peculiar circumstances.

TO CAPTAIN G. T. MARSHALL, Secretary to the College of Fort William. SIR.

Genl. Dept. Recent occurrences having deeply impressed the Deputy Governor of Bengal with the necessity of a more strict inforcement of the rules and regulations prescribed for the College of Fort Willam, and of subjecting the conduct of the Students generally to a closer supervision and control, I am directed to issue to you the following instructions.

2. The periodical Reports furnished for the information of Government in regard to the progress made by each of the young men in the Native Languages, are in future to contain, as directed in a Dispatch from the Honorable the Court of Directors, dated the 20th of July, 1830, observations upon the general conduct and ability of the Student.

3. In order to bring the progress of the Students more under the eye of the Examiners, each Student will in future be required to undergo an examination, and shew progress in, one language at least, once every month, instead of undergoing as at present a general examination once in two months in nominally two Languages. The Students will also be assembled at the College subsequently to each examination, in order that the deficiencies and errors in their exercises may be pointed out to them by the Examiners, who will avail themselves of the opportunity of making such remarks for the benefit of the Students, as their conduct collectively or individually may appear to call for.

4. No Student will be allowed to reside, without the special sanction of Government, so far from the College Buildings, as with reference to the prosecution of his studies, the exercise of the supervision and control now intended to be provided for, or other considerations, may appear on the representation of the Secretary to be improper and objectionable.

5. The Secretary will in future strictly observe Rule 21 of the existing Regulations, which prescribes that—" whenever it shall appear to the Secretary, that a Student is not availing himself of the means of instruction afforded by the College, and has not made adequate progress in his Studies within two Months from and after his initiatory Examination, or whenever the Secretary shall be satisfied that a Student, from expensive habits, from idleness, or from other improper indulgences is likely to incur debt, and to set an injurious example to others by remaining attached to the College, a report of the circumstances shall be made for the information of the Governor, who will take immediate measures for the removal of such Student from the College."

6. When a Student may have exceeded the twelve Months, allowed for qualification by proficiency in two of the Native Languages, the Secretary will report his opinion whether this result has ensued from incapacity or idleness, and in either case, whether or not it has been accompanied by notoriously irregular and improper conduct.

7. After a Student shall have passed fifteen Months without being reported qualified, he will cease to draw any allowance and be directed, in conformity to the Orders of the Honorable Court, to return to England as unfit for the Civil Service.

8. The Students will continue to be held entitled to promotion according to the date of leaving College, due consideration being of course always given to established claims arising out of approved official service.

9. An annual Report will be prepared, printed, and published, exhibiting the proficiency and general conduct of every Student, together with the orders of Government thereupon.

10. You will be pleased to promulgate these instructions for the use of the College, and to cause a printed copy, including the Rules and Regulations dated the 23d June, 1841, to be delivered to every Student on his admission.

I have the honor to be, &c.

(Signed) G. A. BUSHBY,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Fort William, the 25th May, 1842.

College of Fort William, 19th July, 1842.

It is hereby notified, that no Student will be allowed an intermediate Examination in the interval between the General Monthly Examinations, except under peculiar circumstances and with the express sanction of the Visitor.

By order of the Honorable the Visitor, &c.

The Reports of the Examinations are to be signed by the Examiners, with a declaration to the following effect :

" I, A. B., do solemnly declare that the Students named in the Report have, to the best of my judgment, been impartially classed according to their proficiency, as evinced by their respective exercises."

15. The Governor will assign Prizes to the Students as the reward of successful study and diligent application, viz : Medals of Merit for Diligence and distinguished proficiency.

A Donation of 800 Rupees to the Student who shall entitle himself to a Certificate from the Examiners of High Proficiency.

The written exercises to consist of three Papers :

No. 1. Paper in Prose in the Language in which the Diploma is to be taken, selected from some difficult work.

ж

No. 2. Paper in Poetry, of a similar description to the preceding.

No. 3. English Paper to be translated into the Oriental Language. In the examination for a Degree of Honor in Hindee, the translation from English into Hindee must be in the "Khuree bolee," or pure dialect of Hindee, in which the Prose of the "Prem Sagur" is composed, and it must be written in the Devanágari Character. This remark is to apply also to the examination for a Certificate of High Proficiency and to that for qualification for the service, in Hindee.

No Student shall receive two pecuniary rewards on account of the same Language, but a Student who, after receiving a Certificate of high proficiency, may become entitled to a Degree of Honor for eminent proficiency, shall be entitled to the difference between the rewards attached to the two different grades.

16. When a Student shall have completed his course of study in the College of Fort William, and shall obtain permission to quit the College, he shall receive from the Secretary of the College a Certificate specifying the proficiency he may have obtained in the studies of the College, the honorary rewards adjudged to him, the Degree or Degrees of Honor conferred upon him by the Visitor, and the general tenor of his conduct during the period of his attachment to the College.

17. In addition to Degrees of Honor and Certificates of high proficiency in any of the Oriental Languages taught in the College of Fort William, the Visitor will also confer a Degree of Honor upon any Student who on examination may be found to merit it, for eminent knowledge of the Musulman or Hindoo law, in Arabic or Sanskrit respectively, or of the Regulations of the British Government. Medals of Merit shall also be awarded to any Student who may appear to deserve them for their knowledge on these subjects.

18. If any other person than the Civil Servants of the Hon'ble Company on the Bengal Establishment, shall, at any time, be permitted by the Governor of Bengal to study in the College of Fort William, and the expense of Native Teachers or any other expense, shall be incurred in the instruction of such persons, the same shall be charged in the general accounts of the College under a separate head, the Governor who reserves to himself a general power of directing what Student shall be admitted to the College, will also in such cases, determine whether the person admitted shall be entitled or not, with respect to Prizes and Honorary Rewards, to the full privileges of a regular Student.

19. No Student shall leave Calcutta and its immediate vicinity, without permission from the Visitor or the Governor. Any instance in which a Student may be found to have transgressed this Rule shall be immediately reported to the Government for such notice as may appear proper.

20. Students guilty of any irregular or indecorous conduct, which may not appear to call for a report to Government, shall be admonished by the Secretary under the orders of the Visitor. But serious instances of wilful disobedience to the Rules and Regulations of the College, or of disorderly and unbecoming conduct, shall be reported for the information and orders of the Government.

21. Whenever it may appear to the Secretary, that a Student is not availing himself of the means of instruction afforded by the College, and has not made adequate progress in his studies within two months from and after his initiatory Examination, or whenever the Secretary shall be satisfied that a Student, from expensive habits, from idleness, or from other improper indulgences, is likely to incur debt, and to set an injurious example to others by remaining attached to the College, a report of the circumstance shall be made for the information of the Governor, who will take immediate measures for the removal of such Student from the College.

22. The contracting of debt by a Student in the College will be considered as a serious offence against the discipline of the Institution, implying pursuits and habits incompatible with its objects, and the study and attention expected from all its members. The public interests are equally concerned on this point with those of individuals; and it is hereby declared, that a young man leaving College and entering on the Public Service, under heavy pecuniary embarrassments, and after having contracted habits of prodigality, will be considered to labour under disadvantages amounting to a disqualification, as long as those habits and embarrassments continue, when offering himself as a candidate for any situation of high trust and confidence. The Students of the College are accordingly enjoined to pay particular attention to this rule, and to regard it as a warning of the consequences of their contracting debt, and as an injunction to the practice of those habits of prudence and economy which will enable them to live within their income.

23. General Orders and Subsidiary Rules may be issued by the Visitor (not being inconsistent with the Rules prescribed in this Resolution,) and shall be binding on the Students, and for their information all such Orders and Rules shall be regularly recorded in an Order Book kept by the Secretary.

24. The Students of the College will be allowed the use of the Oriental Books in the College Library under the Rules established in this Department of the College. The Students are required to be careful in preserving and returning to the College Library the books which may be lent to them. In the event of the Student failing to comply with this injunction, he will be held responsible for the value of the Books damaged or not returned.

25. The Accountant General and Civil Auditor, who are to be respectively considered Accountant and Auditor of Accounts for the College of Fort William, shall furnish the Secretary of the College with all Accounts and Statements relative to Disbursements for the College which may be required by the Governor for transmission to the Hon'ble the Court of Directors. All sums required for expenditure on account of the College, whether fixed or contingent, shall be drawn for in the usual manner, under such restrictions as have been or may be established, and after being sanctioned by the Governor shall be paid from the General Treasury.

26. At the end of each year of Account, viz. on the 30th April of each successive year, a General Statement of Disbursements on account of the College of Fort William, or for purposes connected with the College during the past year, under distinct heads, shall be prepared by the Accountant General, and submitted through the Secretary of the College to the Governor of Bengal. On examination of such Statements it shall be the duty of the Visitor to consider whether any part of the College Establishments or Disbursements will admit of better regulation or of reduction, and in that case to report his sentiments, with any information that may be necessary for the consideration and orders of Government.

27. The amount of subscription for Class Books or other Books or Papers, the publication of which may be encouraged by Government, at the recommendation of the Visitor for use in the College, shall be included in the Annual Statements required by the Rule preceding, distinguished under a separate head.
